Second Confession in Colony Murder Case

MAKSINOWICZ REPUDIATES FORMER TALE

New Confession Places Murder on Himself and Walt Smith

Repudiating much of his former statement of purported facts concerning the brutal murder of George Spader, feebly minded patient at the Dixon state hospital, last Thursday evening, Mike Maksinowicz last night made a second confession in which he completely exonerated Jacob Sapperstein. The latter was immediately released from custody and returned to the institution while Walter Smith and Maksinowicz are still being held.

Hoping that the fourth day of the investigation which has been conducted continuously by Dr. Warren G. Murray, superintendent of the hospital, members of his staff and Sheriff Risley and his deputies, might bring results, it was anticipated that the murder mystery might be cleared up. With this hope in view, it was suggested that Smith and Maksinowicz be taken back to the institution this afternoon under guard and re-enact the murder of last Thursday night.

Can't Find His Sweater.
When questioned late Saturday, all were emphatic in their statements that Spader wore a red sweater and dark cap on the night of the murder and were at a loss to account for both of these articles when the body, terribly decomposed was discovered in the tunnel system. Yesterday the sweater was found in the bakery building where the murdered man had left it Thursday evening. Letters and a small sum of money were also found in the pockets. The cap, however, has not yet been found. A blood stained shirt belonging to Smith is also expected to cast some light on the murder today.

Smith still contends that he knows nothing of the Spader affair although he admits that he talked over with Maksinowicz, a few days before, the question of "knocking Spader off for his money."

Maksinowicz's second confession is.
I, Mike Maksinowicz, of my own free will and with the view of clearing up the murder of George Spader, make the following statement. On Wednesday noon after dinner me and Walter Smith came back from dinner. He asked where Jake Sapperstein was and I said I guessed he had dinner over by the kitchen. We got in the dining room and Jake was sitting by the table. We says: "Come on Jake," and we went to the utility room and Smith said: "What is the chance of getting Spader?" I said, "All right," Jake said, "I don't want to." We said, "All right, we won't" just like Walter Smith was in there and he said, "When should we do it?" Thursday night will be all right. We agreed that it would. Smith said: "You take him down the hole and if he won't go, tell him we are going to B side and we will fix it up that way. I will get me an iron pipe and when you come up you draw Spader's attention and I will hit him." I said all right. We agreed to meet at 15 minutes after 8. I said, "I will be right there." Smith said he would tell that he was in the kitchen and I was going to say that I was at the river.

Pushed Him Into Hole.
We went to the manhole and I went down the ladder and then we came up toward the dining room. I was standing there and I got over that way and I said, "Sussie," and he turned over to me. Smith hit him on the head and he fell forward and then he pushed him down the hole. He yelled as he fell forward and it kind of scared me. Then he went down the ladder where he was and dragged him on the steam pipe. We stopped several times because there were braces and we could not get him through there. So we our arms out and dragged him over them.

Then we left him there after we got the money. I said, "I will go this way" and Smith said, "I will go toward the kitchen." We were still in the tunnel. I came up the ladder where the body was brought out. I looked around and did not see any one as I went toward the dining room between A-1 and the dining room and went straight across to A-4. I went around to my window and pulled out the screen easy and got in. I pulled off my shoes and walked out and looked at the clock and it was 8:30. I had taken two shirts and two pairs of overalls out of the laundry. I

PROF. HILBISH OF LEE CENTER GOING TO ERIE

To Become Head Community Schools in That Place

After seven years of faithful and effective service as superintendent of schools at Lee Center, Prof. Harry P. Hilbish will voluntarily sever his connection with that school system at the close of the present school year and take up his duties as superintendent of schools at Erie in Whiteside county in September. Mr. Hilbish has had ten years of experience as a teacher and school executive. When he took charge of the Lee Center schools there were two grade teachers and one high school teacher. The high school enrolled eleven pupils. Today there are three grade teachers and three high school instructors with a high school enrollment of 42 students.

A fully recognized four year course is offered. There is a well equipped library and chemical laboratory. An efficient literary society has functioned for a long period of years. This school received a recent favorable commendation from the high school visiting inspector for the state superintendent of public instruction.

Three years ago there were added three modern grade rooms immediately meriting approval from the state authorities as a standard graded school.

The Erie schools are operated as a community high school district comprising approximately four townships. There are seven high school teachers with an enrollment of 119 students and five grade teachers with an enrollment of 139 pupils. Prof. Hilbish will receive a splendid increase in salary in this larger field of endeavor. Many, indeed, are the good wishes that will go with Prof. and Mrs. Hilbish and their family to their new home.

Heard Jacksonville Man
Dixon Kiwanians were hosts to the Gyro club at a well attended meeting held in the guild rooms at St. Luke's church at noon today when Prof. Ben Shafer, superintendent of the Jacksonville, Ill., public school system gave a very interesting talk. President O. M. Rogers welcomed the Gyro club members as guests at the luncheon and Commissioner J. E. Vail introduced Attorney Albert H. Haynken, president of the Gyro club, who responded.

ELECTION OF VON HINDENBURG ISN'T POPULAR IN WORLD

Nearly Every Nation is Displeased With War Lord as President

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, April 28.—While there is an evident disposition among American as well as British and Italian observers here, after the first reaction, to await developments of the next month or two before judging the import of the Hindenburg election in Germany, there is a more or less confirmed pessimism in French circles over the event.

Against the French view, however, that it means an unmasking of German militaristic ambitions, is the German construction that, rather than a victory for the reactionary factions, it is a blow to communism in Germany. As to apprehensions from an economic standpoint, treasury officials believed the indication of a swing toward conservatism in Germany would hardly be viewed by American banking interests as anything to fear in supporting German reconstruction. They regarded the early reaction in the money market as only a temporary effect.

The bearing of the Hindenburg election on the security proposals made by Germany figured prominently in the discussions here. German observers are inclined to attach some responsibility for the election to the delay by the allies in acting on the proposals. British circles, which decline to accept any responsibility for the failure to act on the German proposals, believe much depends on the attitude General Von Hindenburg takes toward the idea.

BANDS PLAYED OLD TUNES

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Berlin, April 28.—The victory of the nationalists in the presidential election has been closely followed by the resumption of the band concerts in the public squares; customary in the days of the monarchy, and which consisted chiefly of the rendition of patriotic airs. At the Wittenmerplatz yesterday, the band played the "Army March Number 9," the "Kaiser Waltz," the "Black, White and Red" imperial flag song and "Deutschland Über Alles."

DEPLORED IN AUSTRIA

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Vienna, April 28.—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's election to the German presidency is regarded here as a serious blow to the idea of an Austrian union with Germany and is deplored by the newspapers of all parties.

UNWELCOMED BY RUSSIA

Moscow, April 28.—(By the Associated Press)—News of the election of Von Hindenburg as president of Germany was received with astonishment in Soviet Russia, where people had been led to believe that the aged military leader had little chance of success. His triumph is especially unwelcome to the Russian communists who know his avowed hostility to Bolshevism.

Some Soviet leaders profess to see in the nationalists' victory danger of restoration of the German monarchy and revival of the Teutonic military menace.

Follow Many Theories in Proof of Woman's Murder
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Gary, Ind., April 28.—A variety of theories today guided police of two states in their efforts to identify the charred, muddled and dismembered body of a girl, found on Sunday near Chertown, Ind., and to find her slayer.

The city tangible clues were a partly buried pair of eye glasses, bits of a dress, a string of beads, a pocket box and a Pennsylvania Railroad employees card. Opticians who measured the glasses said they were only slightly off a certain standard, and would be difficult to trace.

Coroner Dobbins planned a post-mortem examination after authorities had been given time to try to identify the body.

Suspect Incendiary in A Virginia Mine Blaze
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Morgantown, W. Va., April 28.—The ruins of three pillars of the Gilbert-Davis Coal Company were being searched today by state and county officers for evidence that might indicate the cause of the fire which destroyed the pillars last night with an estimated loss of $200,000. Officers stated the belief that the circumstances surrounding the blaze pointed to incendiary, but said they had uncovered no clues. The Gilbert-Davis company had operated its mine upon a unit basis until April 1 when operations were suspended.

OFFERS SELF AS DEFENDANT OVER REAPPORTIONING

Elgin Representative Defies Newspapers of Chicago Today

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—(By the Associated Press).—The question of reapportioning Illinois broke out with renewed bitterness in the House this morning when Representative Frank McCarthy of Elgin offered himself for prosecution by Chicago newspapers, John Fergus or any other individual who resented action of down state members last week in defeating reapportionment.

McCarthy offered the facilities of a grand jury and public prosecutor in his county for trial.

Roger Little, Champaign; Lee O'Neill, Brown, Ottawa; C. G. Foster, Macomb, had previously spoken, challenging the Chicago newspaper to go ahead and carry out their threats.

Ex-Governor Critchfield.
Former Governor A. O. Eberhart of Minnesota was interrupted this morning in a five minute speech on reformation by Rep. Browne of Ottawa who rose to a question of personal privilege and censured the visitor for reference to the reapportionment squabble.

Gov. Eberhart had witnessed the reapportionment debate before he spoke, and explained that he had merely intended to be humorous.

Browne declared the House was not here to be criticized for its actions by visitors.

Referring to the attack on the Chicago papers, the Minnesota said Minnesota had gone through the same thing and added that he didn't believe Chicago papers had the influence on the public that some people believed.

Browne evidently took that remark as criticism.

New German President Facing Real Dilemma

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Berlin, April 28.—Germany's new president not only has the cares of office to face in the near future, but one problem of an apparently minor nature which is giving him and his advisers real concern, in connection with his inauguration. This is the delicate problem of how he shall attire himself for the ceremonial.

As head of the nation, Hindenburg also is commander-in-chief of the army, and it is planned to have him review a military parade immediately after the ceremony in the Reichstag. Heretofore when a president has reviewed the troops, he has done so in civilian attire, but Hindenburg, besides being a civilian president, is a retired field marshal and entitled to wear a uniform.

According to military etiquette under which the president-elect grew military man visits the troops in civilian dress. On the other hand, if he appears in uniform before the Reichstag, it is considered certain he will give offense to that body. The president-elect thus seems to be facing a real dilemma.

Big University to Stop Keeping Books in Pupils

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New Haven, Conn., April 28.—"We've decided to stop keeping books on the comings and goings of our honor students," Dr. James L. McConaughy, the new president of the University, said in an address before the New Haven Alumni Association of that college here last night.

"In the very near future," he continued, "all juniors and seniors who rank above the average will be told that they need not attend classes except when they believe it will be the most beneficial thing for them to do. It is ridiculous to treat men of proven ability and maturity as though they are children. I believe that the day is not far off when certain students will be told that if they can find better reference on portions of their course in the libraries of New York City to go there and study for a week or so. After that it will be but a short step to the practice of sending men to Europe for the independent study of modern languages."

Says Railway Travel is Safer Than City Streets

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 28.—A person today is in far less danger speeding across the country at sixty miles an hour on a railway train than he is crossing a street in any of the principal cities of the United States, R. H. Ashton, president of the American Railway Association said in an address prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the safety section of the organization here today. Although the million ways in 1924 transported 931 million persons, nearly nine times the population of the United States, only 149 fatalities occurred and the number of injured was 15 per cent less than the average for the previous four years and the smallest since 1901, he said.

Upwards of 300 delegates, most of them officials of railroads, attended the meeting.

Subscription to Telegraph Cheaper Than to Remail it

Postmaster John E. Moyer stated that most of the patrons of the post-office have advised themselves of the new postal rates which became effective on April 15, which is a reflection of credit upon the citizens of this community, as in many cities the postmasters are complaining of the mails being clogged due to the failure of people to attach the required postage.

Postmaster Moyer stated that the main difficulty at the local postoffice has been with neglect of people mailing The Telegraph to friends, to attach enough postage. Under the old rate The Telegraph could have been mailed to any part of the United States for one cent for four ounces. The new rate is two cents of each two ounces or fraction thereof.

A ten page paper of The Telegraph weighs more than four ounces, which means that six cents postage is required to carry it by mail. Parties, therefore, who have been re-mailing The Telegraph to relatives or friends after reading it, will find it cheaper to subscribe for the paper by the year and to re-mail the papers themselves. For instance, the subscription price of The Telegraph outside of Lee and adjoining counties is $7 per year. If the paper is re-mailed by an individual at the postoffice, it will cost them 8 cents per year, 25 cents per week, or $13.75 per year.

It now costs The Telegraph $20 a year to produce and deliver the paper to a subscriber for that period. It costs the Chicago Tribune $39 to $55 a year for each yearly subscription.

Hundred Dixon Elks at Rochelle Meeting

A delegation of about a hundred members of Dixon lodge of Elks accompanied the officers to Rochelle last evening where the latter had charge of the first section of work initiating a class of 50 candidates. The degree team of Mendota lodge proved very proficient in the second degree.

Delegations were present from Sterling, Dixon, Mendota, DeKalb, Sycamore lodges numbering about 300. At the close of the initiation a social hour was enjoyed. Attorney C. E. Gardner acting as toastmaster called upon Senator Harry G. Wright of DeKalb, Jas. Galloway of Sterling and H. C. Warner of this city who responded with short but interesting talks. The festive close closed with the serving of refreshments.

MISSING GIRL IS SUICIDE, BROTHER AND MOTHER FEAR

Note Left by Mary Sofolo Indicates She Planned Death

"If you find me put me in the very same grave where sister Rose is put. Sick and tired of living this way, Mother Dear—Mary."

The above note, found in a dresser drawer in her room a short time after she left home about 9 o'clock Monday morning, has caused the family of Miss Mary Sofolo, aged 21, daughter of Mrs. Lena Solof, 708 Second street, to believe that the girl, despondent over her weakened physical condition which followed a severe illness about four years ago, has taken her own life.

Torn with anxiety, her brother, Anthony Sofolo, has offered a reward of $50 for the recovery of her body, dead or alive, and the authorities have been asked to search for her. She was last seen going east through the arch on Second street soon after leaving her home Monday morning, and it is probable that she went to the cemetery to visit her sister's grave, in which she had expressed a wish to be buried also, for a freshly broken branch of a barberry bush was found stuck in the sod there yesterday afternoon.

The girl, following her sickness four years ago, has been in a very weakened condition and it is impossible, members of her family say, for her to have gone far without seeking rest.

She is about 5 feet, 2 inches tall, weighs about 135 or 140 pounds, has dark naturally bushy hair and dark eyes. She walked slowly with head bowed at all times and was dressed in brown waist and light blue skirt with brown stockings and dark shoes.

GOLD STANDARD ADOPTED TODAY BY GT. BRITAIN

Pound Sterling Nears Par With Announcement of Change

London, April 28.—(By the Associated Press).—The gold standard in England will be restored to the Bank of England to export gold bullion, it was announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill, in his budget speech in the House of Commons today.

The bank's special license, Mr. Churchill said, would operate from today pending the formal lapsing on December 31 next of the 1920 act prohibiting the export of gold bullion.

He characterized the yield from internal revenue as "satisfactory."

Mr. Churchill said he was making arrangements to obtain credits in the United States for not less than $300,000,000 with possible expansion.

The American credits being arranged for, Mr. Churchill said, would only be used if and when required, and he did not expect that it would be necessary to use them.

The interest on the British national debt, Churchill announced, has been reduced since 1920 by more than 70,000,000 pounds.

It was most important, he said, that the policy of debt repayment should continue.

Mr. Churchill proposed the re-imposition of the McKenna duties upon imported luxuries.

NEW HOME OF BANK WILL BE VERY FINEST

To Cost Approximately $150,000; Bank to Use Entire Building

Announcement was made today of the letting of the contract for the new home of the City National Bank, work on which will be started Monday morning. The contract was awarded to Charles W. Gindelle & Company of Chicago, contractors who built the Dixon postoffice building. The plans for the new structure, which will surpass any bank building in this section of the county, were drawn by N. Max Dunning of Chicago. The contract for the installation of the plumbing and steam heating system was awarded to the firm of Kline & Heckman and the electrical work to Walter Cromwell, both local contractors.

The new structure is to be completed and ready for occupancy Dec. 1. In the meantime, the banking business of the institution will be conducted from the Downing building, which has been occupied by Chester Barriage's battery shop. The approximate cost of the new building will be $150,000.

Exclusively for Banking

The rooms now occupied by the bank and the Kennedy Music store will form the front of the new building with a frontage on Galena avenue of 51 feet and extending back a distance of 86 feet on East First street. In the plans drawn for the new structure, the building will be occupied solely for banking purposes and will be about 50 feet high or higher than a two story building. It will be of the most modern type of exclusive bank building.

In every respect the building will be fireproof. Heavily reinforced concrete foundation will support a grey granite base extending to the window sills on the first floor. On the north side, eight large terra cotta pilasters of classic design will be placed and four on the front of the building. The exterior finish will be of a colonial design.

The interior of the building will accommodate the basement, first and mezzanine floors. Entering through two large doors on Galena avenue, into a spacious corridor, the plans provide for large roomy lobby; equipped with 12 windows for the accommodation of customers. Marble will be used in the flooring and wainscoting throughout, with the fixtures of bronze. The most modern system of bank equipment will be installed for the convenience and comfort of the patrons as well as the employees.

Doors leading off the lobby will enter the president's room and a public telephone booth. A commodious ladies' rest room will be situated on the first floor. In the rear of the first floor rooms for the bookkeeping system and its operators, a supply room and a rest room for lady employees has been provided.

Vaults in Basement
A stairway of pink tinted Taverne marble will lead from the main lobby to the basement floor. Marble will also be used in the flooring and wainscoting of the basement, with bronze trimmings. A large skylight will extend over the entire roof and an automatic washed air ventilating system will furnish ventilation for the basement. The wood trimming will be of American walnut.

In the basement, all of the vaults will be located. The safety deposit vault with five booths and two rooms for the accommodation of users of the vault will be 10 1/2 by 33 feet and will be enclosed with 18 inch heavily reinforced concrete walls. Rest rooms, boiler room and janitor's quarters will also be in the basement, as will the public toilet rooms.

When completed, Dixon will be able to boast proudly, and justly so, of the finest bank building in the central west and one of the finest of its size in the country. Much time and consideration has been given to the drawing of the plans and perfecting the specifications for this beautiful new structure.

Knox County Bankers Organize "Home Guards"

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Galesburg, Ill., April 28.—Bankers of Knox county, at a meeting last night, completed plans for the "home guard" which will assist the sheriff's forces in capturing bank robbers. Several deputies were appointed for each town in the county and a system of quick notification in cases of robbery was worked out. Long range guns were purchased for the deputies and they were given orders to "shoot to kill." Signs are to be erected at once on the principal roads, warning bank robbers of the measures taken against them. At a meeting some time ago it was voted to pay $1000 for every robber taken dead or alive, after an attempt on a Knox county bank.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

To Brush Bread.

A soft paint brush is desirable to have for brushing bread, rolls and pastry with melted butter.

Take in Clothes.

Don't leave your clothes out on the line to flap and blow after they are dry.

Baby's Stockings.

Baby's stockings should be washed carefully in lukewarm water and suds and dried on a wooden form.

Planning Dinners.

If you are having guests for dinner and have no maid to assist you be sure to plan your dinner so there will be no dessert to make when dinner time comes.

No Pictures Needed.

Paneled walls call for no pictures. A room furnished in plain paper is better for some decoration.

Heat Range Slowly.

A new range should be very gradually ually heated to prevent the possibility of cracking.

Menus for a Family

Tested by C. SISTER MARY

Breakfast:

Halves of grapefruit, breakfast spinach, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, or tea.

Luncheon:

Macaroni and cheese pudding steamed, brown bread, rhubarb bread pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner:

Boiled salmon, egg sauce, potatoes au gratin, buttered string beans, cabbage salad, cornstarch prune pudding, rye bread, milk, coffee.

If you have never served a succulent vegetable for breakfast, your family will undoubtedly remark at the innovation. However, such vegetables as spinach and asparagus make delicious breakfast dishes combined with eggs and milk. The mother who includes these vegetables among spring breakfasts is wise indeed and more than repaid for any extra work involved by the bright eyes and rosy cheeks of her family.

Breakfast Spinach.

Two and one-half pounds spinach, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 5 squares of hot buttered toast, five eggs.

Wash spinach through many waters. Use warm water for the first washing and cold for the remaining cleansing. Shake out each handful of leaves when clean, but do not drain. Put in to a large kettle with a close-fitting cover and place over a slow fire. When the spinach is wilted increase the heat and cook for 20 minutes. If there is too much juice to possibly use on the spinach, remove cover and let the water evaporate during the last five or ten minutes of cooking. Chop spinach when tender, season with butter, salt and pepper and arrange on toast, using the liquid as well as the vegetable. Drop a poached egg on each portion. Sprinkle each egg with salt and paprika and dot with butter.

Crisp pieces of broiled bacon can be served with this dish if desired.

The spinach should be washed and put into the pan in which it is to be cooked the night before. Cover the pan closely and the leaves will be perfectly crisp and ready for cooking in the morning.

Dixon Choir Sang

at Sterling Sunday

The Sterling Gazette of last evening printed the following article:

The choir of the Dixon Christian church was greeted by a large congregation at the vesper service on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Sterling Christian church. Many Dixon people came from that city with the choir.

The program of worshipful music was one of the most enjoyable ever heard in the local church. The chorus work of the choir was excellent and the solos, duets and trios were all rendered effectively and with appropriate feeling. Mrs. Charles Bishop, leader of the choir, was heard in "There is a Green Hill Far Away," always appealingly beautiful when sung as Mrs. Bishop sang it. The soprano solo by Mrs. W. W. Moore, "Christ the Lord is Risen Again," was an Easter number of unusual beauty. Miss Ora Floto sang the solo in "Oh Come and Mourn," Deeming Hintz sang the bass solo in "Near the Cross was Mary Weeping," and Mrs. A. D. George sang the solo part in "Thou Sore Oppressed," all three of these numbers being Easter choral music of great beauty.

The duet numbers were "Late on the Sabbath Day," by H. Raffensberger and Mrs. J. E. Regan, and by Mrs. Rosbrook and Mr. Fahney. "Whosoever Believeth Shall Live," both duet numbers being supported by the choir.

Miss Floto, Mrs. Bishop and Curtis Rice in a trio supported by the choir sang "Awake, Glad Soul, Awake," and Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Morris Rosbrook and Clinton Fahney, with the choir sang, "Come Ye Faithful." A violin solo, "Adoration," by Borowski, was one of the most enjoyable numbers on the program. Miss Mary Hintz was the capable accompanist for the service.

Rev. B. H. Cleaver, pastor of the Dixon church, spoke briefly and brought the greetings of the Dixon church to the Sterling congregation.

He spoke appreciatively of the inspiration his own church received from the visit of the Sterling choir on the Sunday before and he also praised the Sterling church for the showing made in the Easter campaign.

Delegation of Officers

Guests at Meeting

Last Thursday afternoon a delegation of the officers of the Dixon Women's club attended a guest-day meeting of the Woman's Club of Sublette.

The parlor of the Union church in which the meeting was held was most charmingly decorated with spring flowers and plants.

Mrs. Frank Lett, president of the club, and Mrs. Barton, chairman of the program committee, welcomed the many guests from other clubs after which those present were entertained with a short musical and literary program followed by a play entitled, "A Typical Club Woman."

The program was put on in a very interesting manner, the social hour and the refreshments which followed were most enjoyable and the guests felt that they had spent a very profitable, pleasant afternoon. The Sublette club are noted for their hospitable manner of entertaining.

The ladies attending from Dixon were Mrs. Goeke, Mrs. Herriek and Mrs. Deutsch.

COLOR CONTRAST HERE

Appliqued designs of brown kasha trim this tan coat which is guileless of curve or flare and makes the distance from shoulder to hemline in the straightest possible line. It is ideal over the thin summer frock, and affords ample protection as well as much decoration.

CONTINUING WITH ORCHESTRA

AND QUINTE.

Mrs. W. H. Smith, wife of Prof. Smith, deceased, is continuing with much success the work of the Dixon Symphony Orchestra and the String Quintette. Both these musical organizations will give concerts in the near future.

ENTERTAINED GUESTS AT BRIDGE.

Mrs. George Moore delightfully entertained a few friends at bridge last evening.

Recital Proved Highly Enjoyable

On Saturday afternoon one of the most delightful events of the spring season took place, from both a musical and social standpoint, in the piano-forte recital given by Miss Josephine Anderson, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Anderson. At this time Mrs. Eleanor Coppins Chapman, instructor, presented her pupil, Miss Anderson.

The hospitable Anderson home was beautifully decorated with lovely spring flowers. Mrs. Anderson was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. R. H. Whiteside of Chicago, who was a guest at the Anderson home, over the week-end.

It is rare, indeed, that a performer as young as Miss Anderson, attempts in one program compositions as difficult as those presented Saturday, written by composers such as Grieg, Brahms, Beethoven, Bach and Chopin. Such a varied program given with such ease and true interpretation on the part of the pupil reflects much credit on the teacher.

The program is reproduced below:

Sonata in F Major for Violin and Piano — Grieg

Alice Coppins, Violinist

Concerto in C Major — Beethoven

En Bateau (In a Boat) — Zeckwer

Three Preludes — Chopin

Solfège for two pianos — Ph. E. Bach

Second piano parts played by Eleanor Chapman.

Miss Anderson, dressed in a dainty dress of canary, colored crepe de chine, with her brown bobbed head and dancing hazel eyes made a charmingly youthful picture as she weaved the intricate harmonies of the program on the piano.

The Grieg sonata, played by Miss Anderson with violin accompaniment by Miss Alice Coppins, was very pleasing and of unusual tone beauty. Miss Coppins is a violinist of exceptional talent and she plays with refreshing originality and expression. The delighted applause given each selection by the guests evinced a fine appreciation of the program, which was composed of numbers not often attempted by so young a musician as Miss Anderson.

In the Brahms number which was beautifully done, the peculiar and unforgettable singing tones so indicative of the Brahms music, were brought forth with true artistry.

In the numbers arranged for two pianos, Mrs. Eleanor Coppins Chapman, played the second piano parts, the Concerto in C Major by Beethoven and the arrangement for two pianos by Ph. E. Bach, being enthusiastically encored.

In a program of such uniform excellence it is difficult to single favorite selections, all being equally enjoyed, Bach being a favorite composer with some, Beethoven with others and Grieg with others.

The group of Chopin selections was lightly and gaily played.

It would seem that Dixon is indeed fortunate in having an instructor gifted as is Mrs. Chapman, who is such a beautiful interpreter of the great composers, and doubly gifted in being able to make her pupils, especially one of Miss Anderson's youth, realize the ideal of each old master and to interpret each one with such clearness and vividness of vision and tone color.

During the interval following the program a dainty luncheon was served by a cateress, friends of Miss Anderson assisting with her in serving the guests, Misses Marion Schmidt and Lucile Hofmann.

The afternoon proved one of exceptional enjoyment to everyone present.

Presbyterian W. M. S. Met Friday P. M.

The Presbyterian Women's Missionary society met on Friday afternoon with Mrs. William T. Greig.

There were quite a number present in spite of the sharp thunder storm that came about the hour for the meeting. Mrs. Mark C. Keller gave an excellent discussion on the subject of the Negro, dividing it into three parts: First, The Prejudice Against the Negro; Second, The African Negro; Third, The American Negro.

The remarkable improvement in the condition of these people brought by their own ambition and longing for better life, is very impressive. The social hour following the meeting was most enjoyable.

ALTAR AND ROSARY SEWING CIRCLE.

The Altar and Rosary Society Sewing Circle will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Howard Wheeler, 1621 West Fourth street. The assisting hostesses will be Mesdames Darry Nagle, L. G. Graham, John Finan.

MAKING IT HARD FOR CRIMINALS.

Illinois is about to take three radical steps which ought to materially assist in making this state an unhealthy spot for bank bandits and the criminal element generally to operate in.

Recently the State Senate, by a vote of 35 to 8, passed the Barr State Highway Police bill, authorizing the creation of a law-enforcing organization of not to exceed 750 members to thoroughly police the new highway system of the state. Gov. Small stated to Senator Barr during the week that this state now has the best highway system of any state in the Union and that if the Barr bill should become a law he would endeavor to give Illinois the best state police force possessed by any commonwealth. It is practically certain that the Barr bill will become a law and effective July 1. With a carefully selected and well-trained force of fearless, active young men, mounted on speedy motorcycles, law-violators will be given a run for their money and will be likely to give Illinois a wider berth in their depredations.

Secondly, Senator Kessinger's bill appropriating $50,000 to place a state bounty of $1,000 on the head of every bank robber who may be killed has been favorably reported to the Senate and should become a law. Ever since civilization began it has been the practice of the people to offer a bounty on all things that prove a menace and danger to society, viz., stage robbers, horse thieves, wolves, etc., and bank robbers certainly come within the category of menaces. Passage of the Kessinger bill will prove another discouraging thing to criminals and cause them to hesitate about taking a chance in Illinois. It will also spur a lot of officials on to renewed effort to win one or more of these cash awards, if possible.

Lastly, Illinois bankers have started a move for a state protective association, similar to one now in effect in Iowa, which will result in more vigilant guarding of banking institutions during business hours and the payments of a $1,000 award for the body of any bank robber, dead or alive. Thus, through the three "B's" the Barr bill, the Kessinger Bounty, and the Banker's bandit award, there is a good prospect that crime is going to be made less prevalent in Illinois than it has been during the past few years.

TO PICTURE PITFALLS.

Mary E. Hamilton, New York City's first policewoman, and one who has had wide experience in crime prevention and protection of girls, announces that after consultation with publicists, statesmen, editors, teachers, judges, police officials and criminologists, the message of policewomen, who are actually community mothers, not policewomen alone, has at last been put into screen form—pointing out the pitfalls of crime and how such dangers may be avoided. Policewoman Hamilton says this screen version is based on actual cases that she has handled herself, and on situations that she has encountered in her activities as policewoman in the big city.

The great effort is to impress forcibly on the individual, the ignorant or ignoring fathers and mothers, the fact that crime prevention must begin in the home. Astounding as it may seem, she points out that less than ten percent of delinquent children come from criminal environments. More than ninety percent of them from "our best neighborhoods," largely from our best families.

When this screen version is ready, it should be shown in every city. Churches that are equipped for screen presentation will doubtless want it, and the regular picture houses should be equally ready for it.

CHEAP LINERS.

It is tragic, in an era of governmental economy, to sell for $5,625,000 five good, modern ships, all built since the war, which cost the government more than $30,000,000. It hurts Uncle Sam where he lives. Yet if Uncle Sam has no more knack for the shipping business than he was shown so far, it may be just as well to get them off his hands. Better a little cash than a big investment which brings steady loss.

It is well, in any event, to make sure that such ships shall be kept at work in the Pacific, linking America with the varied and growing trade of the Orient and the vast populations that lie beyond our sunset. The Pacific ocean ought to be used a great deal more than it has ever been.

BORAH AS A LEADER.

When Senator Borah speaks the senators and the galleries listen. He is a master of constitutional law and an expert in debate. Yet, we suspect that persons who think they see in Borah a man coming into leadership are doomed to disappointment.

Borah was not born to lead. He was not born to follow. He was born to stand by himself, and to let those who will stand by him. If he were to find himself in the position of a leader of a majority we suspect that he would conclude that he was wrong; that he would look himself over and revert to his old form.

MONKEYS.

We can't help but feel sorry for that New York baboon that broke his cage, beheaded a small monkey, and was shot as he planned a leap to the street.

Perhaps it was necessary to take this animal with, shall we say primitive instincts, and cage him far from his native shore. Probably it was necessary to slaughter the animal after he had made his escape.

But just the same we feel sorry for the baboon.

CONGRESS COULD SAVE AND PAY FOR NEW OFFICES.

They are proposing to spend $2,000,000 for an additional office building for the House of Representatives in Washington, in order that representatives, like senators, may have at least two office rooms apiece. As it is, House members "have but one room each, in which to receive visitors, hold conferences, and house three or four clerks."

There was a time, not so many years ago, when congressmen had no offices at all, and no clerks. Each congressman's reception room was his own parlor, or the parlor of his boarding house.

His office with his desk, on the floor of the House of Representatives chamber, where he wrote his letters, by hand, with a pen. His business with the department he conducted by tramping around to them himself, on his own feet.

And yet, there was more attention to public affairs and more reputation to be made in Congress then than now. The new offices are, of course, needed. Modern business methods make modern equipment necessary.

But if half as much attention were paid to modernizing the methods of Congress itself as to the physical equipment and assistance of congressmen for their personal work, it might save the people the price of a dozen office buildings in a single week.

WE ARE MAKING PRIME MINISTER OF PRESIDENT

"Ineffective" and "futile." This is the newest form of propaganda against President Coolidge. It is acknowledged that the people are with him, and that he is generally right and Congress usually wrong on the things on which they differ. But it is claimed that he lacks the power to "make" Congress do things, and that the failures of Congress must therefore be laid to his account.

Results will have to show whether there is foundation of fact for this complaint. But the interesting thing is the revelation of our changed attitude toward executive and legislative responsibility.

Definitely, we demand of the president, legislative leadership, and we judge him, not merely by the rightness of his policies, but by his success in getting Congress to adopt them. We have made a prime minister of the president.

"I know what's wrong," cried the lady springing to her feet.

"Achoo! Achoo! Achoo!" went the lady who was having her picture taken.

"That's not the way," said the photograph man. "You mustn't sneeze. You must sit very still while I count five. Now look at the little bird—so! And hold your head just so! Smile, please. No, that's too much! No, that isn't enough! Just look as though you heard a circus parade coming down the street. That's the way! Fine—simply fine!"

He got behind his camera and stuck his head under a big black cloth and took a good look.

"Couldn't be better," he said holding up his hand. "Now sit perfectly still until I say five. One—two—three—"

"Aa-achoo!" went the lady again. "Nancy and Nick and Mister Whizz, peeping through the velvet curtain, know why the lady had suddenly appeared to catch such a cold. They saw the bad goblin with the stolen snuff box, perched on top of a screen behind her back, and blowing snuff as hard as he could every time the photograph man started to count."

"My, my!" said the photograph man crossly. "I think you should have gone to the doctor's for some medicine instead of coming here. I never heard such sneezing in all my life."

"I'm sorry," said the lady. "But I feel all right now. I'm sure I shan't sneeze again."

"Very well," said the photograph man a little more patiently. "Please sit the way I showed you and look at the bird and smile."

And once more he got behind his camera and stuck his head under the black cloth to see if everything was all right.

tried the experiment for a week of leaving out all news of crimes reports. It a failure. Part of the subscribers stopped to paper and the rest voted, 69 to 1, to have the crime news back.

So, since the people want it, it is demonstrated that the newspaper, as a business proposition, should print the news of crimes. And it could also be demonstrated that, since the people ought to have it, the newspaper, as an altruistic proposition, ought to print it.

Whatever class of news is systematically left out of the papers, rumor will immediately take its place. And the worst newspaper is better than the best rumor.

PROHIBITION LAW IS HERE TO STAY

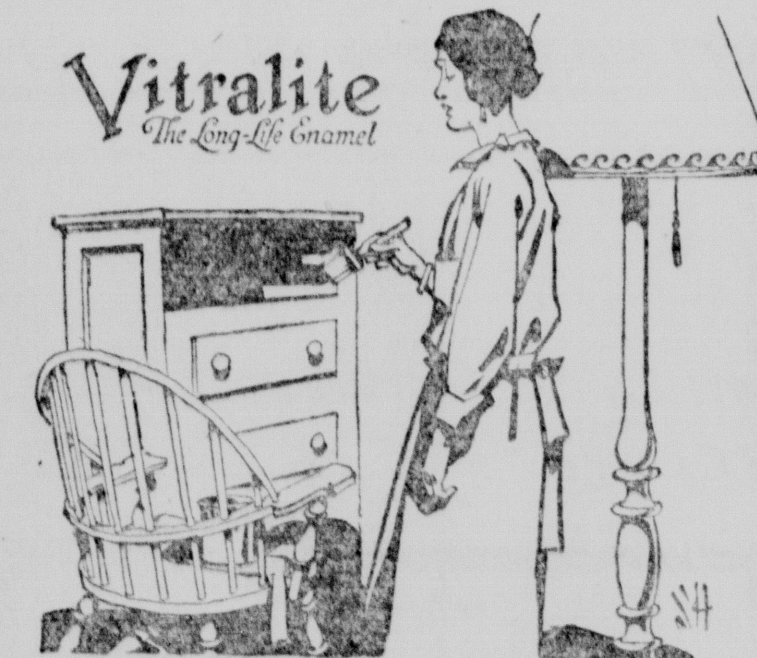

"What is to be done?" That is for the lawmakers to say." So argues the most widely read of the cynics on prohibition.

The trouble is that it is not true. It is not for the "lawmakers," but for the law enforcers and the people. There is nothing the lawmakers can do. They might theoretically make minor changes in the Volstead Act, but any change that would interest the "wets" would be unconstitutional and would be thrown out by the supreme court.

The law is there to stay, and could not be changed substantially, even if there were any possibility of getting lawmakers who wished to do so. And that is impossible, too. Most of the "wet" vote is concentrated, to make a huge majority in a few districts all of which already have wet representatives.

So electing a wet Congress is an impossibility, and it could not con-

Yes, two things. The enforcement officer can enforce the law well or ill. The people can obey or disobey it. That is all.

TELEGRAM FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

Just to let you know that all is well with the Prescott family, old man, and that I am the happiest man in all the world, because I have fallen in love all over again with the sweetest woman on earth and that woman is my wife. JACK.

Letter From Ruth Barke to Leslie Prescott.

Your letter was not unexpected dear, Leslie, although many of the things in it surprised me, particularly that beautiful poem by Kari Whitney.

In the first place I must tell you that Walter had some important business that came up unexpectedly in New York. His attorney telephoned him and as we had been separated so much lately, I decided to go with him. We only had 30 minutes to make the train I intended to call you up this morning, but received your letter before we were through breakfast and so concluded that I would write to you instead.

I wonder if you realize how much more intimate you and I are with each other on paper than we are when we speak face to face. Someway when I read your letters I see an entirely different Leslie before me. You pour out yourself on paper so completely. There are none of the inhibitions which you seem to have when we are talking.

As you say, Leslie, it took me a long time to make up my mind to marry Walter. In the first place, I had a queer left-over prejudice about a divorced woman marrying again. I got the wrong idea, you know. I thought marriage should be easy and divorce hard and now I know that is should be marriage that should be hard and divorce easy.

I know now that the prejudice against divorce is a silly convention or unwritten law invented by man who thinks thus to surround marriage with more importance.

Marriage is sacredly important, dear, but not in the way most people look at it. We are just beginning to find out, we are just beginning to realize that it is worse to live with a man one abhors than it is to leave him and live with the man one wants. I recognized this dimly all that last year when I was married to Harry Ellington, but I said to myself that a divorced woman was a disgraced woman. I did not realize that any other partnership was not irrevocable, that in any other partnership one was not expected to keep on with it, if one saw that one had made a great mistake.

Divorce in the minds of some people is an almost unpardonable sin and no one so separated should be given another chance. And so lived on and on with Harry allowing him to torture me every day with his neglect and his attention to other women. I would not even acknowledge to myself that I was more or less in love with Walter.

Are you shocked at that? (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

NEWS FROM DIXON

FINE PROGRAM AT BOYS' EXHIBIT AT FAMILY THURSDAY

Y. M. C. A. Gym Classes and Band Benefit to be Worthy

(By Murphy)
The boys of Dixon, not a group of expert athletes, gymnasts or performers, but the more regular attendants at gym class, a common ordinary cross section of the boy life of Dixon, are the boys who will be the cast in the Annual Gymnastic Exhibition, presented by the physical department of the Dixon Y. M. C. A., assisted by the "Y" Boys Band, at the Family Theater next Thursday evening.

During the past year the physical department has carried on a large variety of activities, including various games such as basketball, volleyball, indoor and outdoor baseball, etc., conducted swimming classes of various kinds, hikes, bowling, scramble suppers, etc. Of many of these things it is impossible, of course, to give an exhibition or demonstration; much must be left to the imagination. The coming exhibition, therefore, will deal more with the formal part of the regular gym classes, giving a very short synopsis of a number of different types of exercises—corrective body building and recreative—which the boys get in the regular class program. There will be but one special class represented, the newly organized Pyramid Building class, which is preparing a few special acts for this occasion and which will undoubtedly be the hit of the evening. This group had a number of pictures taken Saturday morning in front of the "Y" and those who were around at this time claim the boys are "good."

The part of the program taken by the Boys' band, which will appear in full uniform, will be of interest to, and will please everybody, as this organization has established a reputation for playing that is enviable. A fine program of choice numbers is being prepared for this occasion which assures an entertainment worthy of the name.

Ten third part of the evening's program will be a picture, mostly comedy secured especially for this occasion. These three parts compose the whole of the Annual Gymnastic Exhibition given by the Physical Department of the Dixon Y. M. C. A. at the Family Theater Thursday April 30 at 8 o'clock.

Coach Paul Roberts of the Lee Center high school has returned from Bloomington, where he attended the Illinois Wesleyan track meet Saturday. Next Time You get Tight, Attempt This Washington, April 27—An intoxicated person may, if he so desires, become sober in about half an hour by the proper exercise of his lungs. Dr. Henderson of the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale told the National Academy of Science here today.

The only thing necessary to eliminate the alcohol from the system he said, is to induce rapid breathing which would clear it through the lungs.

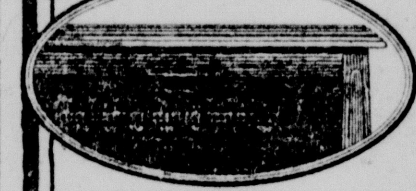

Dr. Henderson, with Howard H. Haggard, also of the Sheffield School, related experiments on a variety of subjects having to do with the activities of the blood stream which they said, had been found to be about twice as large as formerly supposed.

First Woman Butcher in Berlin Grades "Excellent"

By Associated Press Licensed Wire

Berlin, April 28—The first woman in Berlin to pass the examination required for journeymen butchers secured a grade of "excellent" from the Master Butchers Association. She is Margareta Cohn, daughter of a local meat market owner. The examination consisted of skinning, carving and quartering a heifer.

This Unique "Station Finder" Takes the Guesswork Out of Tuning

A UNIQUE feature of the Pfanzstiel Overtone Receiver is a "Station Finder," which takes the guesswork out of tuning and enables even the inexperienced to tune this receiving set quickly and without difficulty.

From the radio program in the daily newspaper or radio magazine, ascertain the "wave-length" of the station you want to hear and also the time at which it is scheduled to broadcast.

- 1. Find this "wave-length" or number on the lower scale.
- 2. Read the number directly above it on the upper scale, and set each of the three large dials to this reading.
- 3. Tuning may now be sharpened by adjusting the large dial slightly, one at a time, with the small vernier knobs below. Adjustment of the large dial to a fraction of a degree, enables you to secure the sharper tuning needed for maximum results from distant stations.

Step in and let us demonstrate this new Receiver to you. Learn why it marks an entirely new stage of radio performance.

Boils!

Cuch!

S.S.S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorders. And the one remedy which has no equal is S.S.S.

S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils, it fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins!

S.S.S. has been known since 1826

as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S.

today and clear your skin of those

boils!

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

In the car was a woman, alone. She looked sharply as she passed. Mother Gregory!

THE STORY SO FAR:
GLORIA GORDON, beautiful flapper, marries DICK GREGORY, struggling young lawyer. Her idea of marriage is fun and fine clothes . . . but no work or children!
Dick borrows his mother's maid, MAGGIE, to teach Gloria to cook. But she refuses to learn.
Dick has an attack of flu. While he and his secretary, MISS BRIGGS, are working at home, Gloria plans a house-warming. She asks STANLEY WAYBURN, an actor with whom she once was in love, to be one of the guests. He accepts.
When Dick meets Wayburn he is instantly jealous, although the actor craftily devotes himself to MRS. MYRA GAIL. Gloria drinks too much and faints away while dancing with DR. JOHN SEYMOUR, whose wife, MAY, is in love with JIM CARREWE. The party breaks up when LOUIE HUGH scolds BILL, her husband, for petting Maggie, disgusted, leaves and returns to MOTHER GREGORY.
Then Gloria hires RANGHILD SWANSON, although Dick says they can't afford a maid. And she orders $100 worth of new clothes, and insists upon a new car, leaving Dick with debts.
She goes for a ride in the new car, after a quarrel with Dick, and meets Stanley Wayburn.
Now GO ON WITH THE STORY

WHY do you have me? I just saw you? Stan asked. When the car was under way again . . . slowly, this time. Gloria laughed gaily. "Oh, I don't know," she answered. "Unless it's that you're always a sort of mental cocktail to me . . . you pick me up."
"You picked me up, just now," Stan parried.
"I never was so glad to see anybody in my life. I was feeling blue . . . But tell me, what were you doing, rambling around the country all by yourself?" the girl asked.
Stan's hand in his suede glove came down on the wheel over her. "I was thinking of someone whom I loved . . . and lost," he said.
"It was your own fault that you lost her . . . that is, if you mean me," Gloria answered. She could feel her heart thumping in her breast.
"You knew I was and about you a year ago, and that I'd have married you like a shot . . . If you'd asked me," she went on with difficulty. "But you didn't ask me."
"I know," Stan's voice was very low. "But that doesn't make it any easier for me now . . . It's impossible for me to realize that you're another man's wife."
He turned in his seat and took the other man's wife in his arms. . . . The little blue car slid to a standstill at the side of the lonely road.
Gloria closed her eyes. There was a new feeling in her. It was like being flooded with sweet, warm sun shine . . . on this wintry day. She felt, she thought, the way a flower must feel the moment it bursts into bloom.
"Kiss me," she said. "I love you, Stan."
Wayburn kissed her . . .

A N automobile whizzed by on the pavement, but Gloria didn't hear it.
The world for her, at that moment, was bounded by the rough fabric of Stan's coat, as it brushed her cheek . . . by the hard ring of his arms that held her close.
If he loves me the way I love him, he'll want me to leave Dick . . . she thought to herself.
But did Stan want her to leave Dick?
Did he care for her as she did for him?
Did he want her for forever . . . or for just the passing moment's thrill? . . . Gloria wondered.
She never had been sure of Wayburn, she had been sure of Dick. She never had trusted him. . . . And yet there was no one else in my dresser at the hotel. . . . Will you lend me a couple of dollars to pay the check?"

"Why, of course," Gloria replied eagerly.
In her new headed bag was a five dollar bill that Dick had given her to buy gasoline, that morning. She passed it across the table to Stanley. When the change came Stanley absently stuffed it into his trousers pocket.
"When he gets back to the hotel, and discovers that he forgot to give me my change, he'll have a fit," Gloria laughed to herself.
Outside the clear afternoon light had faded a little. The fields lay brown and barren under the bleak sky.
Gloria felt a little melancholy as she turned her car toward the city. She hated the thought of leaving Stan . . . of going home to Dick, and the dull evening.
"Isn't this mad as day?" Gloria asked. "Why, of course it is! . . . Why aren't you at the theater, giving the matinee girls a thrill?"
"The company's gone bloozy," Wayburn said. "It disbanded last Saturday. That's what amused me so back there, when you were raving about Sonya Chotek. She left town Sunday. I'll probably never see her again."
Gloria laughed.
"And Myra Gail leaves for Europe soon . . . she and her husband?" she said. "So that both of my deadly rivals will be gone . . . and I'll have you all to myself!"
"Will you like that?" Stanley asked. "I thought all women enjoyed being jealous!"
"Enjoy being jealous!" Gloria repeated.

It seemed to her at the moment that the thing she would most enjoy in the world would be to know that Stanley Wayburn was blind when it came to seeing other women . . . to know that she would never have to be jealous of him again!
"Get over on your side of the road . . . a car's trying to pass us!" Stanley said, looking back over his shoulder. Gloria nosed in toward the right-hand side of the road.
In the car was a woman, alone. She looked sharply into Gloria's car, as she passed it.
Mother Gregory!
Gloria almost ran the car off the road into the muddy ditch beside it, as her eyes met those of Dick's mother.
"Hot hoto!" she cried. Dismay was in her voice.
"What's the matter now?" Stan asked.
"Oh, nothing much . . . except that that was my husband's mother who nosed us just now in that car!" Gloria answered.
"Did she see you? Are you sure?" Stan asked.
Gloria laughed mirthlessly. "I'll say she saw me! And you, too! She looked daggers at us both . . . Oh, what will I do?" Stanley pondered.
"Tell the truth," he suggested. "After all, what did we do that was wrong? . . . You happened to meet me out on this road. You didn't know I was here. It was just a chance meeting . . . tell your husband all about it the minute you get home."
BUT when Gloria ran into her house, Ranghild told her that Dick had phoned to say that he was going to stay downtown for dinner

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER
BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington—After a quarter of a century in state and federal tribunals in Chicago, the famous Deestrick of Lake Michigan case is coming up to the United States supreme court of appeals. It dates so far back that not many people remember just how it started.

The Deestrick is a big tract—a good many acres—of "made land" on Chicago's north shore lake front. At first it was just the North Side city dump.

A North Side as big as Chicago's has a lot of refuse to dispose of. This dump grew fast, away out into the lake, 10, or 15 minutes' walk, and about twice that far north and south from the foot of East Chicago avenue—a dozen or so of city blocks. It consisted of cinders, old bottles, bones, tin cans, all sorts of junk. It wasn't an attractive spot and Chicago in those days wasn't as crowded as it is now, so the land wasn't needed immediately and it seems to have occurred to nobody to claim it until, unexpectedly, "Cap" George Wellington Streeter died. Then everybody wanted it.

The "cap" has been described as a scouter. Nothing so unromantic! He was master of barge on Lake Michigan. One night his shallop broke loose from the tug which was towing it through a storm toward the shelter of the breakwater at the mouth of the Chicago river, and the waves dashed it up on the dump. Then the "cap" had an inspiration. He claimed the coast on which he had been cast away, "by right of discovery," named it the "Deestrick of Lake Michigan" and hung onto it for years.

His case was better than it looked at first glance. The Deestrick was bounded on its landward side by a roadway, which originally had run right along the lake front, so that there were no actually abutting property owners. It really lay off all by itself and the "cap" was the first person who ever had laid claim to it. A score of interests immediately took steps toward evicting him. The "cap" full of fight, organized an army of about a dozen men—armed with rifles, too—to defend himself. The East Chicago avenue police came on the jump, also with Winchester. But on second thoughts, there wasn't much the police could do. If the land belonged to the "cap"—and nobody was in a position to say it didn't—he was entitled to keep trespassers off.

The affair finally resolved itself into a legal contest, but with the threat of an armed clash always looming in the background, like the Balkan menace in a Chicago setting. Presently the "cap" began quick-claiming little patches in the Deestrick for settlers to build shacks on. Thus arose the city of Streeterville—population 200 or 300. The courts were slow. Rival claimants against the "cap" grew impatient. At length they decided to oust him at all costs. Once out, they thought they could keep him out. So one night a strong party of claim jumpers descended on the Deestrick. They found the "cap's" army right on the job. Not only were they repulsed—one invader was killed.

That was the "cap's" undoing. He lost a year in the penitentiary. Taking advantage of his enforced absence, the opposition gained possession of the Deestrick. The "cap" never recovered it. He kept on suing, however, until his death in 1921. Now his widow is pushing the case.

The Deestrick today is worth millions and the buildings on it are worth millions more. And there must be big money behind the "cap's" widow, as there must have been behind the "cap." It costs to litigate for 25 years. As to the issues at stake, they're plenty important enough to be worthy the attention even of the United States.

New York—Henry Beckett, a young newspaperman, cannot write one of the best little stories he knows because it concerns himself.

Henry recently became a proud father and it is his great pride to wheel his little daughter along Fifth Avenue, where the sidewalks are wide and other distinguished persons may steal a covetous glimpse of his distinguished baby.

Also is it Henry's custom to take his exercise thus wheeling the baby buggy, occasionally breaking into a run. The other day he broke into a sharp canter at Twenty-first street racing along to Twenty-third street. There he wheeled about and started to run south. A policeman grabbed him.

"What're you running for?" he demanded.

"For exercise," answered Beckett.

"Where'd the baby come from?"

"Stork brought it."

"Where'd you live?"

"Bleecker street?"

And so on, and so on, while a great throng gathered, blocking Fifth avenue, and windows were opened to witness the capture of a notorious kidnapper. A police sergeant came up and Beckett had to undergo the indignity again.

Now when Henry exercises he proceeds at the merest of trots.

The padlock crusade against Broadway night clubs proceeds apace, to all appearances. Most of the clubs have "agreed" to be padlocked for 30 days, attorneys for the clubs setting the dates on which the doors will be shut.

This works very well for the places padlocked. For instance, Texas Guinan and her El Fey gang, went out and engaged themselves for a vaudeville tour as soon as the date for the padlocking of the El Fey Club was set. Their vaudeville engagement begins immediately after the closing of the club. When the padlock sentence is up they will return to the club.

Most of the padlock periods will come at a time when business begins to slacken because of warmer weather. It is all very amusing to the wisecracks who hang about Times Square.

Fred Fulton, once a leading heavyweight fighter, was struck by a taxi cab driven by a fellow of slight stature. The chauffeur hopped from his seat and began to berate Fulton. As the argument progressed the driver raised his hand to strike the big boxer. "Hey, there!" yelled a newsboy. "You don't know who that is. That's Fred Fulton." The chauffeur looked at Fulton, then extended his open hand, saying, "Sure, I knew who it was. I just wanted to shake hands with him."
